Poker Rules

Medieval Poker follows the official rules for No-Limit Texas Hold-Em.

There are some differences from Medieval Poker and a standard Hold-Em game.

- 1.) Each player starts with an additional hole card.
- 2.) Medieval Poker uses an ante format instead of Small and Big Blinds.
- 3.) Power Cards enhance the game in dramatic ways!

2

Power Cards

The mystical Power Cards allow players to channel their magic and boost their Poker playing abilities to supernatural heights! Your Power Deck is a stack of 40 Power Cards that you build before each Medieval Poker match. Power Cards can be played throughout the hand, as long as you haven't folded.

Card Elements

- 1.) Name - Card Title
- 2.) Effect - What the card does. (See Reference Cards)
- 3.) Type - When you can play each card. (Card Types Pg. 5)

Card Types

The Card Type determines at what point throughout the hand that you are able to play a card. There are 4 Card Types, each representing a different point throughout the Poker hand.

1.) Setup Cards

Setup Cards can be played at the beginning of each hand, after hole cards are dealt but before betting starts. To play a Setup, place it face down in front of you. Setup Cards are revealed and resolved in betting order. (clockwise from the dealer button).

Setup Cards provide players with extra resources to help them win the hand.

2.) Round Cards

Round Cards can be played during the betting rounds. When it is your turn, before you check, bet, or fold, you may play Round Cards. You can play as many Round Cards as you like in a row. To play a Round Card, place it face up in front of you before you take your turn action.

Effectively drawing and chaining compatible Round Cards together to create powerful combinations is a key element in playing Medieval Poker.

3.) Showdown Cards

Showdown Cards are played at the end of the betting rounds, before the hole cards are revealed and the hand is settled.

Showdown Cards are played similar to Setup Cards, by placing them face down in front of you, and are settled in betting order.

The versatility of Showdown Cards is their greatest strength, changing their effects based on the outcome of the hand.

4.) Counter Cards

Counter Cards are unique in the sense that you are able to play them even when it's not your turn. Counters are used to respond to specific actions taken during a hand, or in reaction to other player's Power Cards.

The Counter Chain

Since some Counters are played in response to other's cards, situations arise where 2 or more cards are played before any of them are resolved. In this situation, settle the cards in order of the most recent ones played.

Intimidate

FLEX
Choose a TILTED opponent who is making a bet or raise. They pull back their bet. As long as they're TILTED, that player may not raise, bet, or play Power Cards this hand. (They can call or fold.)

Shiny Distraction

Choose a non-fire Power Card and cancel it.

Then, pay the owner of the cancelled card 10 coins.

Surprise your Opponents!

Card Abilities and Game Terms

Power Cards host a wide array of abilities and effects that influence the Poker game.

A list of abilities and what they do can be found on the Reference Cards included in your Medieval Poker game.

Hand Rankings and Poker Terms

A list of Poker Hand Rankings (what beats what) along with some common poker terms that appear on the Power Cards are also located on the Reference Cards.

Medieval Poker Deck

Medieval Poker uses a standard 52 card deck + 1 Joker Wild Card, for a total of 53 cards. There are also the addition of item cards, which are added to the Poker Deck throughout the game.

How Wilds Work

A Wild becomes any card in the deck (that you don't already have), that would give you your best possible hand.

Item Cards

Item Cards are added to the Poker Deck through the effects of Rogue Power Cards. (See Class Cards Page 17). Item cards are played the same as you would a Round Card.

When you play or discard an Item Card, instead of placing it in your discard pile, place it in the muck (same as if you folded your poker hand).

If an item card is dealt out as a board card, remove it from the game and replace it with the top card of the Poker Deck.

Court Cards

Court Cards are Power Cards that infuse the awesome might of the Royal Court into your Power Deck! Each Member has a powerful unique ability that highlights their core values and traits. (See Reference Cards for how their unique abilities work).

Mastering the strategies of how each of the Court Members combine with the different classes is a key element to success in winning Medieval Poker match.

Neutral Cards

These are silver bordered foundational cards that represent basic poker moves players can take during a Medieval Poker Match.

Class Cards

Class Cards are Power Cards that represent the different skills and backgrounds of Medieval Poker competitors.

Each supports a different playstyle, mechanics, and combos differently with each Court Member.

The Rogue
Tight / Aggressive

The Merchant
Adaptive / Midrange

The Warrior
Loose / Aggressive

The Noble
Tight / Control

Status Conditions

Poker is a game that can bring out the best and worst in people! There are two status conditions to represent the emotional swings in high stakes poker matches. Both of them affect the game by determining which types of Power Cards players can use.

Heating Up

When a player is Heating Up, they're in the zone! This unlocks their ability to play Powerful Fire Cards - which can only be used if a player is Heating Up. Fire cards are incredibly powerful!

Fire Cards are indicated by the flames around the card title and type.

Heating Up can boost the strength of your cards with the ability Hot Streak. (See Reference Cards).

You gain Heating Up by winning 2 hands in a row, and lose it after losing a hand. Use the Fire Button to keep track of who won the last hand. Heating Up can also be manipulated through Power Card abilities.

Tilted

When a player is Tilted, they're off their game... and are locked out of playing most Power Cards! A player that is Tilted can ONLY play Tilted Cards, and Power Cards with the ability Flex. (See Reference Cards).

Tilted Cards are indicated by their diagonal design on the card title and text.

You can tilt other players through Power Card effects. You remove Tilted by winning a hand. The Tilted status can also be manipulated through Power Card abilities such as Recover.

Keep track of player's status conditions by using status cards. Place them in front of a player that is Heating Up or Tilted.

Game Setup

Place 1 Joker in the 52 card deck, and shuffle them together. Set aside the other Jokers, Fire button, All-in buttons, and Item Cards. Pass 1 Tilted/Fire card and a set of 2 reference cards to each player.

Spread the deck face down and have each player choose a card. Place the dealer button in front of who drew the high card.

Pass out 100 coins (chips) to each player. Place the rest in the bank. (Medieval Poker Chips sold seperately).

Deck Building

Pass out the following Neutral Cards to each player:
3 of each - Add On, Burst of Confidence, and Top Up.
2 of each - Hot Streak, Re-Gain Composure, and Run Good. (15 total)

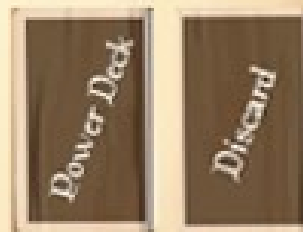

Seperate out the Class Cards and Court Cards into their respective piles and set them aside.

Starting from the button, moving clockwise around the table, each player chooses a class to add to their Power Deck.

Once each player chooses their class, in reverse order, each player then chooses their Court Cards. (The last player to choose a class is the first to choose their Court Cards.)

Then, each player shuffles all of their Power Cards together to create their 40 card Power Deck.

Play Area Setup

When the game starts, shuffle and place your Power Deck face down at a comfortable distance to your right. When you discard or play a Power Card, place it a pile to the right of your Power Deck face up.

If a Power Card has the One Shot ability, place it in a separate discard pile to your left - leaving room in the center for your chips (coins) and to receive your hole cards.

Playing a Hand of Medieval Poker!

SETUP:

Each player draws 1 Power Card (the first hand of the game draw 3 instead). The Dealer passes out 3 hole cards from the Poker Deck to each player. Players may then play Setup Cards. Then, if you hold more than 5 Power Cards, discard down to 5 total.

BETTING ROUNDS:

Start action clockwise from the button. During each player's turn, they may play as many Round Cards as they wish before they check, bet, or fold.

27

SHOWDOWN:

After the last betting round, players may play a Showdown card. Then, all remaining players reveal their hole cards, and the hand is settled up.

Recommended Limits

Official play is No-Limit, with 10 minute levels, and antes of 1-3-5-10. If there are players left after the last level, go to Sudden Death.

Sudden Death!

All remaining players play 4 more hands, with a 25 ante. If there are remaining players after the 4 hands, the largest coin (chip) stack wins.
